

KONICA MINOLTA

The essentials of imaging

iTraining

– web-based system introduction

Having purchased one or more productive multifunctionals from Konica Minolta, now choose truly efficient time management and commit yourself and your team to a Konica Minolta iTraining licence! There simply is no better way of getting to know your new equipment fast:

- Konica Minolta's iTraining gives you an online introduction and overview of your new system, explaining all basic features and functions in easy-to-understand video sequences.
- Choose the iTraining licence that provides access to the number of users you want to familiarise with the new equipment. Each user can take the training course independently on his computer at whatever time suits him best. The online training is always available* – all you need to do is log on and get started.
- Short video sequences give you clear-cut explanations of the copying, printing, scan, fax and user box functionality on your chosen Konica Minolta system. The product introduction is clearly structured yet fully flexible. You can follow the proposed order or switch between different subjects at will, recalling items as often as you like or need to.
- The iTraining provides you with a comprehensive overview of your multifunctional's capabilities. Without depending on any other person, you can call up this information at your convenience. Knowing your Konica Minolta system well will help you make optimum use of it, enhance its operation and increase your overall efficiency.

*) for the duration of the licence contract

iTraining web-based system introduction

iTraining

– online, independent, efficient!

With the convenient iTraining online product training service, Konica Minolta provides introductory overviews and training sequences for the latest range of multifunctional systems that including comprehensive explanations of each product's functionality and operation. These are just some of the items that the easy-to-understand video sequences deal with:

→ Copying

- Structure and operation of the touch screen
- How to produce duplex copies
- How to set paper sizes and types

→ Printing

- Structure and function layout of the printer driver
- How to set functions such as duplex, stapling, punching
- How to start a secure print
- How to save frequently used settings

→ Finishing

- How to make selections for stapling and punching
- How to produce folded and saddle-stitched booklets

→ User boxes

- How to set up a user box for frequently used documents
- How to save documents to and reprint from user boxes

→ Scanning, faxing

- How to start a scan
- How to save email addresses in the address book for use as scan destinations
- How to send a fax and save fax destinations in the address book

→ Flexible licence model

The Konica Minolta iTraining is available as a licence model. Customers can purchase different licences depending on how many users should have access to the online training on their PCs. With the licence the customer receives a unique activation code enabling him to register online; once registered he will automatically receive his log-in code via email. This code will work for the number of users specified by the chosen licence. For the duration of the licence contract users can log in individually at their PC at any time and as often as they want.

→ Attractive benefits

- Fast overview for inexperienced users
- Available for use at any time and for as long as needed*
- No dependency on hotlines
- No external instructor required
- No unproductive waiting time
- Maximised and highly efficient use of all system capabilities

*) for the duration of the licence contract